

From Training to Business Owner

ADJUA'S STORY

Nearly 20 years ago, Adjua joined Sew for Sisterhood to learn sewing and basic business skills she could use to support her family.

With those skills, she opened her own sewing shop in Ghana, a business she has now been running successfully for many years. Today, Adjua earns a steady income and employs two younger women from her community, passing on both skills and opportunity to the next generation.

THE PROGRAM

Sew for Sisterhood began in Ghana and now operates in Kenya, equipping women with sewing, traditional batik, business skills, and the confidence and knowledge to advocate for themselves and their rights as they build sustainable livelihoods.
